GED TESTING IN COLORADO 1993 through 2004

* On January 1, 2002, GED Testing Centers throughout the U.S. and Canada began administering a new English language edition of the GED tests. Any GED candidate who did not successfully complete all five tests by January 1, 2002, would have had to start again with the new series of tests to qualify for a GED credential. This change accounted for the dramatic increase in the number of candidates tested and number of diplomas issued in 2001. The same changes were incorporated into the Spanish language test beginning January 1, 2004.

*Includes all candidates who took one or more of the five GED tests in either language.
