

Natural Hazards Center
Institute of Behavioral Science University of Colorado

Natural Hazards Research and Applications Information Center
Special Publication 38

The Storms of '98:
Hurricanes Georges and Mitch

Impacts, Institutions Response, and Disaster Politics in Three Countries

Richard Stuart Olson

Ricardo A. Alvarez

Bruce P. Baird

Amelia Estrada

Vincent T. Gawronski

Juan Pablo Sarmiento Prieto

2001

 Return to the Hazards Center Home Page

Also available on-line, in Spanish from
The Regional Disaster Information Center for Latin America and the Caribbean (CRID)
<http://www.crid.or.cr>

Table of Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS AND EDITOR'S NOTE

ABSTRACT

I. INTRODUCTION

Disasters in Context
HDI, HPI, and TI's Corruption Index
1998: A Very Bad Year
Analytic Purposes

II. HURRICANE GEORGES AND THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Impacts
Domestic Media Treatment
Responding to Georges: A Tragedy of Errors
Blame Themes

III. HURRICANE MITCH AND HONDURAS

An Erratic Path
A Cruel, Nasty Storm
Media Attention Span
Assistance Credit
The Casualty Issue
Economic Losses: The EIU Assessment
The Political Context of the Impacts
Institutional Change and the Politics of Honduran Sidelineing
Blame Themes
In Sum

IV. HURRICANE MITCH AND NICARAGUA

Death and Destruction (But the Eyewall Never Came Close)
Nicaragua: A History of Disaster
Institutional Evolution: From Somocismo through Civil War to Sandinismo
Media Attention Span
Assistance Credit
Blame Themes
A Policy Work in Progress: Nicaragua's Post-Mitch Changes and Proposals
In Sum

V. CONCLUSION

Losses (Still) Going Up
PAHO's "Event Lessons"
Our Conclusion and the "Accordion Option"

REFERENCES

THE AUTHORS