STATEWIDE AND NATIONAL RESOURCES

www.adoptex.org

The Adoption Exchange is a non-profit 501(c)(3) child welfare organization that was founded in 1983 to help establish safety and permanence in the lives of foster children. Although the Exchange was initially an exchange point for caseworkers to discuss placement of children with families seeking to adopt in the Rocky Mountain region, the organization has grown considerably over the years and engenders a powerful impact on national trends in child welfare, employs over 50 paid staff, and counts on scores of volunteers to carry out its mission. The Adoption Exchange takes a holistic approach to adoption and provides expertise and support before, during, and after the adoption process. Assistance includes the following:

- Guiding adoptive families through every phase of the adoption process.
- Educating families on the critical steps necessary to start the adoption process.
- Reviewing the steps to take while the family waits and answering any and all questions that may arise.
- Supporting families after adoption through support groups and training sessions.

www.tre.org

The Resource Exchange (TRE) was founded by parents and families of children and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) in 1964. It is a Colorado non-profit organization designated by the Colorado Department of Health Care Policy and Financing as a Community Centered Board (CCB) to coordinate and deliver services to children and adults with IDD. Also, by contract with the Colorado Department of Human Services, TRE is also the Early Intervention Service Provider for El Paso, Park and Teller counties. TRE's core strategy is to transform the life experiences of people with IDD by offering fully customizable, innovative services that: build independence, grow economic opportunity, and focus on exceptional health and welfare in order to grow quality of life. TRE partners with hundreds of human service provider agencies, school districts, and a host of additional corporate partners, from healthcare outlets, to local and regional private corporate, academic, research and healthcare organizations in the delivery of services locally, across Colorado, the United States, and abroad. Through this network, TRE can offer the highest quality choices of supports to people with IDD and their families to best meet their needs.

The Center for Parent Information & Resources (CPIR) is a central hub of information and products created for the network of Parent Centers serving families of children with disabilities. There are nearly 100 Parent Training and Information Centers (PTIs) and Community Parent Resource Centers (CPRCs) in the US and Territories. These Centers perform a variety of direct services for children and youth with disabilities, families, professionals, and other organizations that support them. They work with families of infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities, birth to 26, help parents participate effectively in their children's education and development, and partner with professionals and policy makers to improve outcomes for all children with disabilities. All the materials found on the CPIR Hub have been created and archived for Parent Centers around the country to help them provide support and services to the families they serve. Some of the resources available include family-friendly information and research-based materials on key topics and a twice-monthly e-newsletter with key topics and new resources.

Parenting Special Needs Magazine makes it their mission to provide parents of children with special needs of all ages and stages of life both information and inspiration. Parenting Special Needs On-Line Magazine provides practical tips, shares life's lessons, tackles the challenges and celebrates the joys of parenting a child with special needs. They continually seek change for the better with new and helpful information that is simplified to fit into busy schedules. A few of their features include real life parents and caregivers sharing their experiences in raising a loved one, sibling support issues, and other helpful information and resources.

Adoptive Families magazine is a leading source of parenting information for families before, during, and after adoption. Each issue includes practical advice from adoption and medical experts on talking about adoption, navigating an open adoption, parenting across race, and more. You'll also find inspiring first-person stories and photos of real adoptive families. The Adoptive Family website includes access to past issues of the magazine, webinars on demand, blogs, and information about adoption laws by state.

www.cocaf.org

The Colorado Coalition of Adoptive Families (COCAF) website provides adoptive families with potential resources. The website includes copies of their newsletter, crisis intervention team information, information about the federal adoption tax credit, and other helpful information.

www.childwelfare.gov

Child Welfare Information Gateway promotes the safety, permanency, and well-being of children, youth, and families by connecting child welfare, adoption, and related professionals as well as the public to information, resources, and tools covering topics on child welfare, child abuse and neglect, out-of-home care, adoption, and more. A service of the Children's Bureau, Administration for Children and Families, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, they provide access to print and electronic publications, websites, databases, and online learning tools for improving child welfare practice, including resources for families.

Through advocacy, adoption support, leadership development, and education, the North American Council on Adoptable Children (NACAC) works to ensure all children in foster care have permanent, loving families and adoptive families have the support they need. NACAC provides information and resources to prospective adopters and adoptive parents. Through our general adoption support and the Adoption Assistance/Subsidy Resource Center, parents can learn how to adopt, where and how to access adoption support services, adoption assistance benefits, the U.S. federal adoption tax credit, and adoption topics like transracial parenting, the impact of trauma, and much more.

NACAC advocates for policies and practices that improve children’s chances of having a permanent, loving family, and that adoptive families have the support they need to help children heal from their past experiences. NACAC is also a resource to inform and inspire policymakers working to improve outcomes for children and families. We also ensure that the voices of those most affected by policies and practices—the youth and parents touched by the system—are seen and heard during child welfare reform.

The Colorado Respite Coalition (CRC) is an allied network of families, agencies and community partners working to strengthen and support caregivers of individuals with special health care needs. The CRC strives to expand respite services in Colorado for all ages, across the disability spectrum. The CRC is housed at the 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization Easterseals Colorado, which partners with individuals and families to reduce the impact of disability or health challenges and to enhance quality of life. The CRC is primarily funded by state and federal grants, with oversight by the Colorado Department of Human Services - State Unit on Aging.

Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship International (PATH Intl.), a federally-registered 501(c3) nonprofit, was formed in 1969 as the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association to promote equine-assisted activities and therapies (EAAT) for individuals with special needs. With nearly 4,800 certified instructors and equine specialists and 873 member centers, nearly 8,000 PATH Intl. members around the globe help almost 69,000 children and adults--including more than 6,700 veterans and active-duty military personnel--with physical, cognitive and emotional challenges find strength and independence through the power of the horse each year. In addition to therapeutic riding, our centers offer a number of therapeutic equine-related activities, including hippotherapy, equine-facilitated mental health, driving, interactive vaulting, competition, ground work and stable management. More recently, programs offer services in human growth and development to serve wide-ranging audiences for such educational purposes as leadership training, team building and other human capacity enhancement skills for the workplace and for daily use. Find a center near you by searching the online directory.

An insider's view of kid-friendly happenings and ideas for every Colorado parent. Their website includes Things to Do, Camp, Education, Health, Parenting, Stages, Food, Family Life, and their Magazine. They also have a section that focuses on Special Needs, with helpful articles and resources.

<http://www.parentpossible.org>

We envision a Colorado where every family is a thriving ecosystem of learning, laughing and well-being. Our mission is to equip parents with the tools and information to be their child's most valuable teacher, trainer and mentor in life.

We believe every parent has potential, and that families are the most critical resource for their child's growth and development.

We believe parents succeed when they are informed and feel supported.

We believe reaching parents where they are – in the complex and stressful world of parenting – creates a pathway to lifelong engagement.

<https://www.abilityconnectioncolorado.org>

Ability Connection Colorado is built on a legacy established in 1946 when seven mothers met to form a Mother's Club, because they refused to institutionalize their children, and instead "dared to dream of a better life for their disabled children."

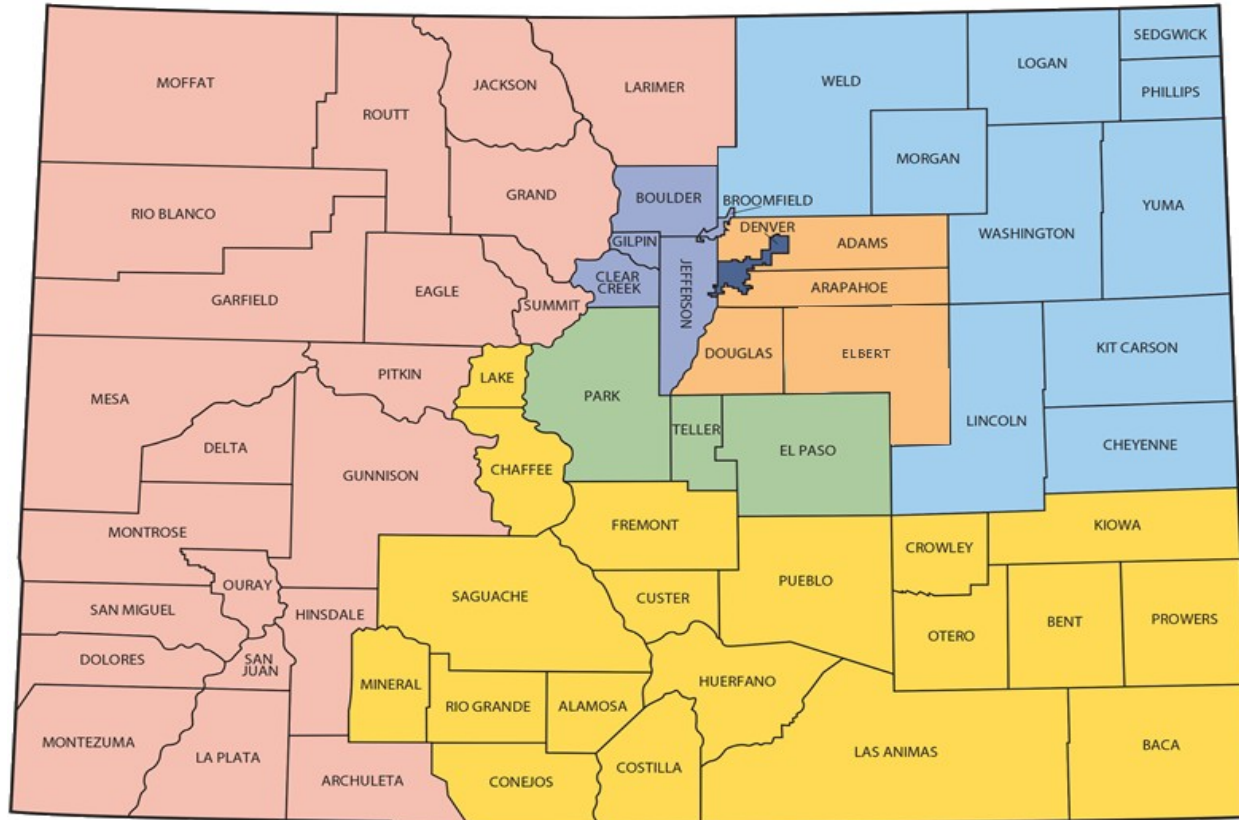

These founding mothers sought ways to pull their children out of isolation and into inclusion. They built more engagement opportunities for their children through education, creating work opportunities, and developing support by bringing together "parents and friends throughout the state for assurance and guidance in the development of disabled children." It is the same work ACCO continues today.

Society's understanding of disabilities has changed since 1946, and so has the work of ACCO. We see how connections improve lives. We focus on intervention, prevention, and support to ensure that all individuals have an opportunity for a high-quality life, and are inclusive members of their communities.

Today, ACCO provides inclusive education, pathways to employment, and statewide family support programs to create opportunities and sustainable change for families across Colorado. We are a Guidestar best practice organization and work hard to ensure .89 cents on every dollar directly supports thousands of individuals and families every year.
